Subject: Painters Licence removal

Hello, as a painter/decorater who completed his tafe qualifications and has run his business by the book for 10 plus years, i am appalled by this potential decision to remove license requirements. We already compete and deal with so many dodgy so called painters that this decision is just ridiculous to say the least. I have seen these so called painters who cut corners, do not know how to prepare correctly and would have no idea how to identify asbestos surfaces or lead paint. These guys rip off consumers every day and you want to make it easier?? This is something that cannot be allowed! I feel cheated to say the least. I take pride in my work and how i conduct myself/ run my business. I am totally opposed to these suggestions. Thank you
