

Rob Thomas

From: [REDACTED]
Sent: Thursday, 10 October 2019 10:31 PM
To: Statutory Review of the Biofuels Act
Subject: Feedback BioFuel

As an individual that stands by usage of biofuels such as E85, I believe the market for this biofuel is situated in a void. The fuel itself is difficult to locate across Sydney, yet alone NSW. Only certain United stations sell E85 and can be troublesome for many other users. Additionally, the prices of fuel are bearing down on affordability which then becomes an issue. This could include theft of fuel at petrol stations or parked cars.

The tax on fuel should be abolished to increase living affordability. Australia is not able to be travelled using public transport (rural areas).

By influencing other petroleum brands such as BP, Shell, or Caltex to produce and sell the same E85 product to individuals which can improve the environmental and societal benefits. An important issue is the lack of availability and prices of E85 biofuels. By influencing the market to meet the supply and demands of E85, an increase in individuals could soon enough switch their cars to operate on E85. This suggest better burning of fuels in cars, thus received better for the environment and society.

Regards,

[REDACTED]