Subject: Deregulation of Painting Industry

As a painter myself and as an employer of my son who is 19 and a third year apprentice painter I am greatly concerned. I have held a licence all of my career and would have expected that my son was entering a trade and would also apply for a licence on completion of his apprenticeship. I am greatly concerned for my future, my son's future and the future of the painting industry as a whole. I am feeling very disheartened and disappointed that this is even being considered. I find it degrading to my trade and my life's work. I would like to know what will happen to apprentices who have struggled to get through their apprenticeships for nothing. Absolutely disgusted with the current government for even allowing this to be on the table.
